The territory of the compound is filled with decorative plantations, flowers and lawns; special Jūrmala charm is added by the age-old pine-trees, which grow within the compound. The entry points and the entrance to the compound are connected through cube-paved lanes, with benches placed along these lanes. A playground for children has been created. A beautiful fence, as well as living fence, has been placed along the perimeter of the territory, thus separating the residential compound from the street and the surrounding territory.
