Aleksandra Apartments are waiting for their new residents – people who will continue to record the history not only of the building, but also of cities and countries.

Aleksandra Apartments is an elite building of flats in one of the most beautiful buildings of the so-called Quiet Centre of Rīga. The historical part of the building was designed by the distinguished architect Rudolf Zirkwitz, and it is built in the style of late Eclecticism. The building was owned by a nobleman, and the first residents of the building were also aristocrats who started to move into the structure in the year 1900. At the turn of the 20th century, Rīga was no longer a walled city, and the city fathers established a zone of green and shadowy parks. The Ring of Boulevards encircled the historical centre, with designs and construction that represented an explosion in the creative and economic energy that had been bottled up for centuries. New blocks of buildings were designed by outstanding architects including Mikhail Eisenstein, Eižens Laube and Konstantīns Pēkšēns. It is no accident that the neighbourhood is on UNESCO's list of World Cultural Heritage.

The buildings are in the prestigious embassy district of Rīga, near the Ring of Boulevards, Old Rīga, the dock for passenger ships and the Rīga Yacht Club. Nearly all of Rīga's major entertainment, social and cultural institutions are a short walk from the Aleksandra Apartments. A 20-minute drive will get you to the seashore town of Jūrmala and to the Rīga International Airport.

The architectural concept of the complex involves two buildings – the facade building, which was built in 1900 and fully renovated in 2010, as well as the newly built internal structure. The facade building has nine family apartments, two studio apartments and two mansard studio apartments with open terraces. The internal building has 24 modern open-plan flats, including six with terraces. The buildings are connected by a platform that is of an original structure and also serves as the inner courtyard of the building. Aleksandra Apartments were built by the best specialists, who used the most courageous and unexpected solutions, innovative technologies and contemporary materials.
